PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Dear Colleagues,

I'm excited to share this month's newsletter packed with important information on upcoming events within our district.

Upcoming Events

This month, we are pleased to welcome Dr. Danielle DeGiorgio, who will speak on Non-Surgical Procedures in Sports Medicine. This is a topic that resonates deeply with chiropractors, since we excel as non-surgical spinal specialists!

Please come prepared with your clinical questions regarding patients with knee, hip, and shoulder issues seeking non-surgical solutions.

Mark your calendars for our annual Holiday Dinner/Party on December 18 at Mezza Luna in Hauppauge. This is sure to be a festive evening filled with fun and holiday spirit! We are having a White Elephant gift exchange so start thinking of a gift to bring (around $40 is perfect). Let's get into the holiday mood as we celebrate Christmas, Hanukkah, New Year's, and more!

Fall Convention Recap

For those who attended the October Fall Convention, the feedback has been overwhelmingly positive. Many participants remarked that it was the best convention in a while, thanks to the clinically-focused speakers and the renewed energy among our members. A big thank you to everyone who took the time to attend!

Member Spotlight

This month, we shine the spotlight on Dr. Claudia Taylor, a remarkable practitioner with decades of success in Brookhaven. Her unique story is inspiring, and we encourage you to take a moment to learn more about our esteemed colleague and friend. District 7 is fortunate to have such a wonderful holistic healer in our midst!

Insurance Updates

We continue to provide updates on significant insurance changes, especially those concerning Suffolk County employees. It's important to stay informed, so I encourage everyone to attend this month's meeting for urgent news.

Meeting Details

Join us for our gathering at 8 PM sharp at the Hampton Inn in Islandia. We will be serving pizza and salad, and I look forward to seeing you all there!

Yours in Chiropractic Health,

JoAnna Fasulo, DC

Member Spotlight

I'm a long-standing chiropractor and a proud member of NYSCA since I started practicing. Reflecting on the early days, I fondly remember when 50-60 members would routinely gather for educational opportunities. It was a time of sharing knowledge and camaraderie. Thank you to those who continue to support the profession.

My practice has evolved alongside my life. Initially, I focused on mothers and children, later specializing in sports injuries, treating elite runners, and delving into rehabilitation after my own health challenges. As nutritional research grew, I integrated wellness and self-care into my practice, emphasizing the importance of habits for aging well.

After a hip surgery, I adapted my practice to be less physically demanding, prioritizing patient care and professional satisfaction. I am grateful for the supportive community of patients, resembling a "Cheers" atmosphere where everyone knows your name.

Raised across the country, I've called Brookhaven Hamlet home for 52 years. With two children, eight grandchildren, and a great-grandchild, I enjoy fixing old houses and exploring new places. My journey has been filled with passion, resilience, and dedication to chiropractic care.

To those at the beginning or middle of their careers, thank you for keeping this noble profession vibrant. Participation in NYSCA is essential for unity and support in our otherwise isolated profession.

Mission accomplished.

NYSCA District 6 and District 7 donated to the Huntington Opioid and Addiction Task Force Sculpture for the Help and Healing Area in Huntington's Hecksher Park.

Dr. Silber has been representing the NYSCA on the Huntington Opioid and Addiction Task Force for the past 7 years. He represents chiropractic as the drugless alternative to treat pain and to help fight and avoid addiction to pain medication.

UNITEDHEALTHCARE'S PROVIDER NEWS EMAIL

OUTPATIENT THERAPY AND CHIROPRACTIC PRIOR AUTHORIZATION

On Thursday August 1st many of you received UnitedHealthcare's Provider News email. That edition of Provider News included a section titled 'Outpatient therapy and chiropractic prior authorization required starting Sept. 1'. Due to the lack of clarity in that email, the NYSCA Insurance Committee (the NIC) reached out to several members of Optum's team Thursday morning and afternoon to obtain more specific information about the new requirement.

NYS CA LEGISLATIVE UPDATE

By: Amy Kellogg, Harter Secrest & Emery LLP

Thursday, June 6, was the last scheduled day of New York's 2024 legislative session, but they went into overtime. The Senate completed their business on Friday, June 7 around 8:30 p.m. while the Assembly worked through the night and completed their work just after 7:00 a.m. Saturday, June 8.

The legislative session in Albany is normally measured in two phases: budget time, which runs until sometime around the April 1 budget deadline, and post-budget, which runs from then until the end of the session. Traditionally, the post-budget phase lasts about eight weeks. However, this year's post-budget phase was truncated because of a late State budget and a late observance of the Passover holiday, which significantly impacted how the session concluded. The normal eight-week end of session period was only five weeks, making it difficult to garner momentum for the large-scale legislative priorities that we tend to see at the end of a legislative session.

This left us a short time frame to work on our legislative priorities. Our main legislative priority is the chiropractic scope of practice bill, S6047-A/A4150-A (Senator Gouardes, Assemblymember O'Donnell). It would update and modernize the chiropractic scope of practice. This legislation recognizes the changes in the education and training of chiropractors, while ensuring that the profession remains surgery and drug free. In the over 60 years since chiropractic was recognized as a licensed profession in New York, there have been significant advances in the educational standards and training for doctors of chiropractic. While this legislation did not pass this year, we had very productive conversations with the physical therapists and orthopedic surgeons. Each group had expressed some concerns about the bill, so we met with them to see if we could address their concerns. Our hope is to wrap up these conversations this fall and get both groups comfortable with the legislation so that they either support, or at least don't oppose, the legislation. In addition, we are beginning to plan for a new Assembly sponsor for the legislation as Assemblymember O'Donnell is retiring this year. We would like to thank Assemblymember O'Donnell for his support of the scope legislation and for being such a strong advocate for the chiropractic profession in New York. We wish him the best in his retirement.

Another legislative priority was the lookback bill (S7076/A7590, Senator Scarcella-Spanton, Assemblymember Lavine). The lookback bill would limit the lookback period for insurance overpayment recovery from health care providers to three months. We worked with a number of other professional groups, including the Medical Society of the State of New York, optometrists, podiatrists, physician assistants, and mental health professionals to advocate for the passage of this bill. While the bill did not pass this year, we had a lot of positive meetings with the Senate and Assembly on the legislative session and will build on this momentum in the next legislative session.

Another bill that became a high priority at the end of the legislative session was A10009/S9214 (Assemblymember Stirpe, Senator Stavisky), which is called the health care professional transparency act. This bill became a priority because of the grave concerns we had about this legislation. This bill would heavily restrict the ability of non-medical professionals to advertise and discuss their credentials, would ban private credentialing and certification outside of the medical profession, and would restrict the use of titles such as doctor and physician. This bill is a blatant attempt to undermine public confidence in the qualification and expertise of tens of thousands of nonphysician health care providers, who are called upon to provide the delivery of and access to health care for millions of New Yorkers. The various medical societies in New York pushed hard to advance this legislation. The heart of their argument for the legislation was that with many professions now requiring doctorates for their graduates, patients will be confused. This misguided attempt by proponents of the legislation to diminish the services provided by vital health care professionals was strongly opposed by a coalition of over twenty-two health care provider groups in New York, who are working to serve the needs of New York's patient population during a time of severe shortages of healthcare providers. We will continue to work with the broader coalition of health care providers to oppose this legislation.

Now that the session has concluded, all focus has shifted to the upcoming elections. Primary elections occurred across the State on Tuesday, June 25. For the General election on Tuesday, November 5, all 213 seats of the Legislature will be on the ballot as are all members of the U.S. House of Representatives, the United States Senate seat currently occupied by Senator Kirsten Gillibrand, who is running for re-election, as well as the seat for President of the United States. There are also many local races that will be on the ballot. We already know that there are many members of the Legislature who are retiring or seeking another office, so there will be many new members in the next legislative session. In addition, many of those leaving are chairs of key committees, so we will see many new committee chairs next year, especially in the Assembly. We are reviewing the legislative priorities and working on the strategic plan for the next legislative session.

As always, if you have any questions, please feel free to reach out.

CORPORATE TRANSPARENCY ACT-BENEFICIAL OWNERSHIP INFORMATION REPORTING REQUIREMENT UPDATE:

On January 11, 2024, we notified our clients of the new Corporate Transparency Act (CTA) that requires business owners to report the Beneficial Ownership Information (BOI) of the business. At the time, it was being challenged as unconstitutional and it was also unclear whether or not CPAs would be able to handle these filings for our clients.

It now appears that these filings will be required and that CPAs will be able to handle these on behalf of some of our clients (but not all).

Penalties for failing to file

- $591 per company day fine (capped at $10,000 per company)
- Up to two years in prison

Other Information

- As of now, these BOI filings will not have to be filed every year. They have to be filed one time initially and then they will have to be refiled whenever information changes (change in ownership, change in entity name, change in address, etc.)
- If you have not already filed this report and you would like us to file it on your behalf, reply to this email today
- New York has also implemented an LLC Transparency Act, which will require a separate filing from this federal filing. The NY filings have been delayed by at least a year - we will provide additional guidance as NY finalizes their filing requirements.
- This is a filing for businesses (not individuals)

Spine Fusion Procedure Takes Herniated Disk Treatment to a New Level of Success

“ I’m Glad I Got This Surgery... I Have No Pain Now, And I Can Walk Again With No Problem.”
— Gregory Slator

Twenty years as a New York City police officer took their toll on Gregory Slator’s back. His low back pain progressed to the point where he could barely walk, and standing straight up was nearly impossible. He said the pain that radiated down his right leg felt like an “electric shock.” He described his pain as a “10,” on a 10-point scale.

Typical medicines and therapies, including steroid injections, did not help. The life of this Long Island father of two was being dominated by his pain. Fortunately for Mr. Slator, a neighbor recommended that he see Artem Vaynman, M.D., a neurosurgeon expert in spinal surgery at NSPC.

“The weakness on Mr. Slator’s right side was significant,” says Dr. Vaynman. “He had three disk herniations in his lower spine that were actually causing him to lean to the side, and making him limp. Mr. Slator is young, and otherwise healthy and fit. This was interfering significantly with his quality of life.”

“Dr. Vaynman went right in and told me what needed to be done,” reports Mr. Slator. “I didn’t have to think too long about this. I decided that I didn’t want to be like other people I knew, taking drugs for years but getting no relief. There was no getting around it.” Dr. Vaynman scheduled the surgery, a three-level decompression and fusion, at Mercy Medical Center in Rockville Centre, NY.

A spinal fusion procedure helps restore disk height and immobilizes vertebrae to stop motion at painful joints and reduce any unnatural pressure on the neighboring nerve roots. These treatments use surgical implants and natural bone graft material that is placed between vertebrae after the surgical removal of the damaged intervertebral discs. In healing, the graft material grows in the disc space, joining the two vertebrae together, effectively eliminating the painful motion.

The techniques necessary for successful three-level decompression are still new, and Dr. Vaynman has had great success in performing this procedure. “This procedure addresses the problem completely,” he observes. “If you do a less extensive procedure, such as a laminectomy, in a case like this, the patient will be far more likely to require a second surgery.”

Mr. Slator is pleased with his results. “I’m glad I got this surgery. All things considered, it’s a success and I’m very happy with how things have turned out. I have no pain now and I can walk again with no problem. I’d recommend this surgery with Dr. Vaynman for other people with this problem.”

Artem Y. Vaynman, M.D.
Dr. Vaynman is a board certified neurosurgeon with special expertise in both complex spinal surgery and minimally invasive surgery. He treats a variety of spine problems, such as degenerative scoliosis, spinal stenosis, compression fractures, back pain, herniated disk, and sciatica.

As of Monday, November 4, 2024, Dr. Dan Birk will no longer be practicing at NSPC. Dr. Zachariah George will continue to see Suffolk County patients in Port Jefferson, Commack and West Islip offices, and is looking forward to caring for the District 7 chiropractors' patients, treating both simple to complex spine issues.

D7 OCTOBER MEETING

Thank you Demetrios Paraskevopoulos from LPL Financial for a great lecture!

UNITY

The collective Unity Committee, comprised of members of the New York Chiropractic Council and the New York State Chiropractic Association (NYSCA), has made significant progress in preparing documents for forming a new consolidated organization.

The Unity Committee has completed the review of both a consolidation agreement and by-laws for the proposed new organization, the Chiropractic Society of the State of New York (CSSNY).

These documents have now been shared with each organizations' Boards of Directors for review. Should the documents be approved at the board level, the next step would involve review and a state-wide vote amongst all members. We will keep you informed as we progress.
